ARDESIA MIX

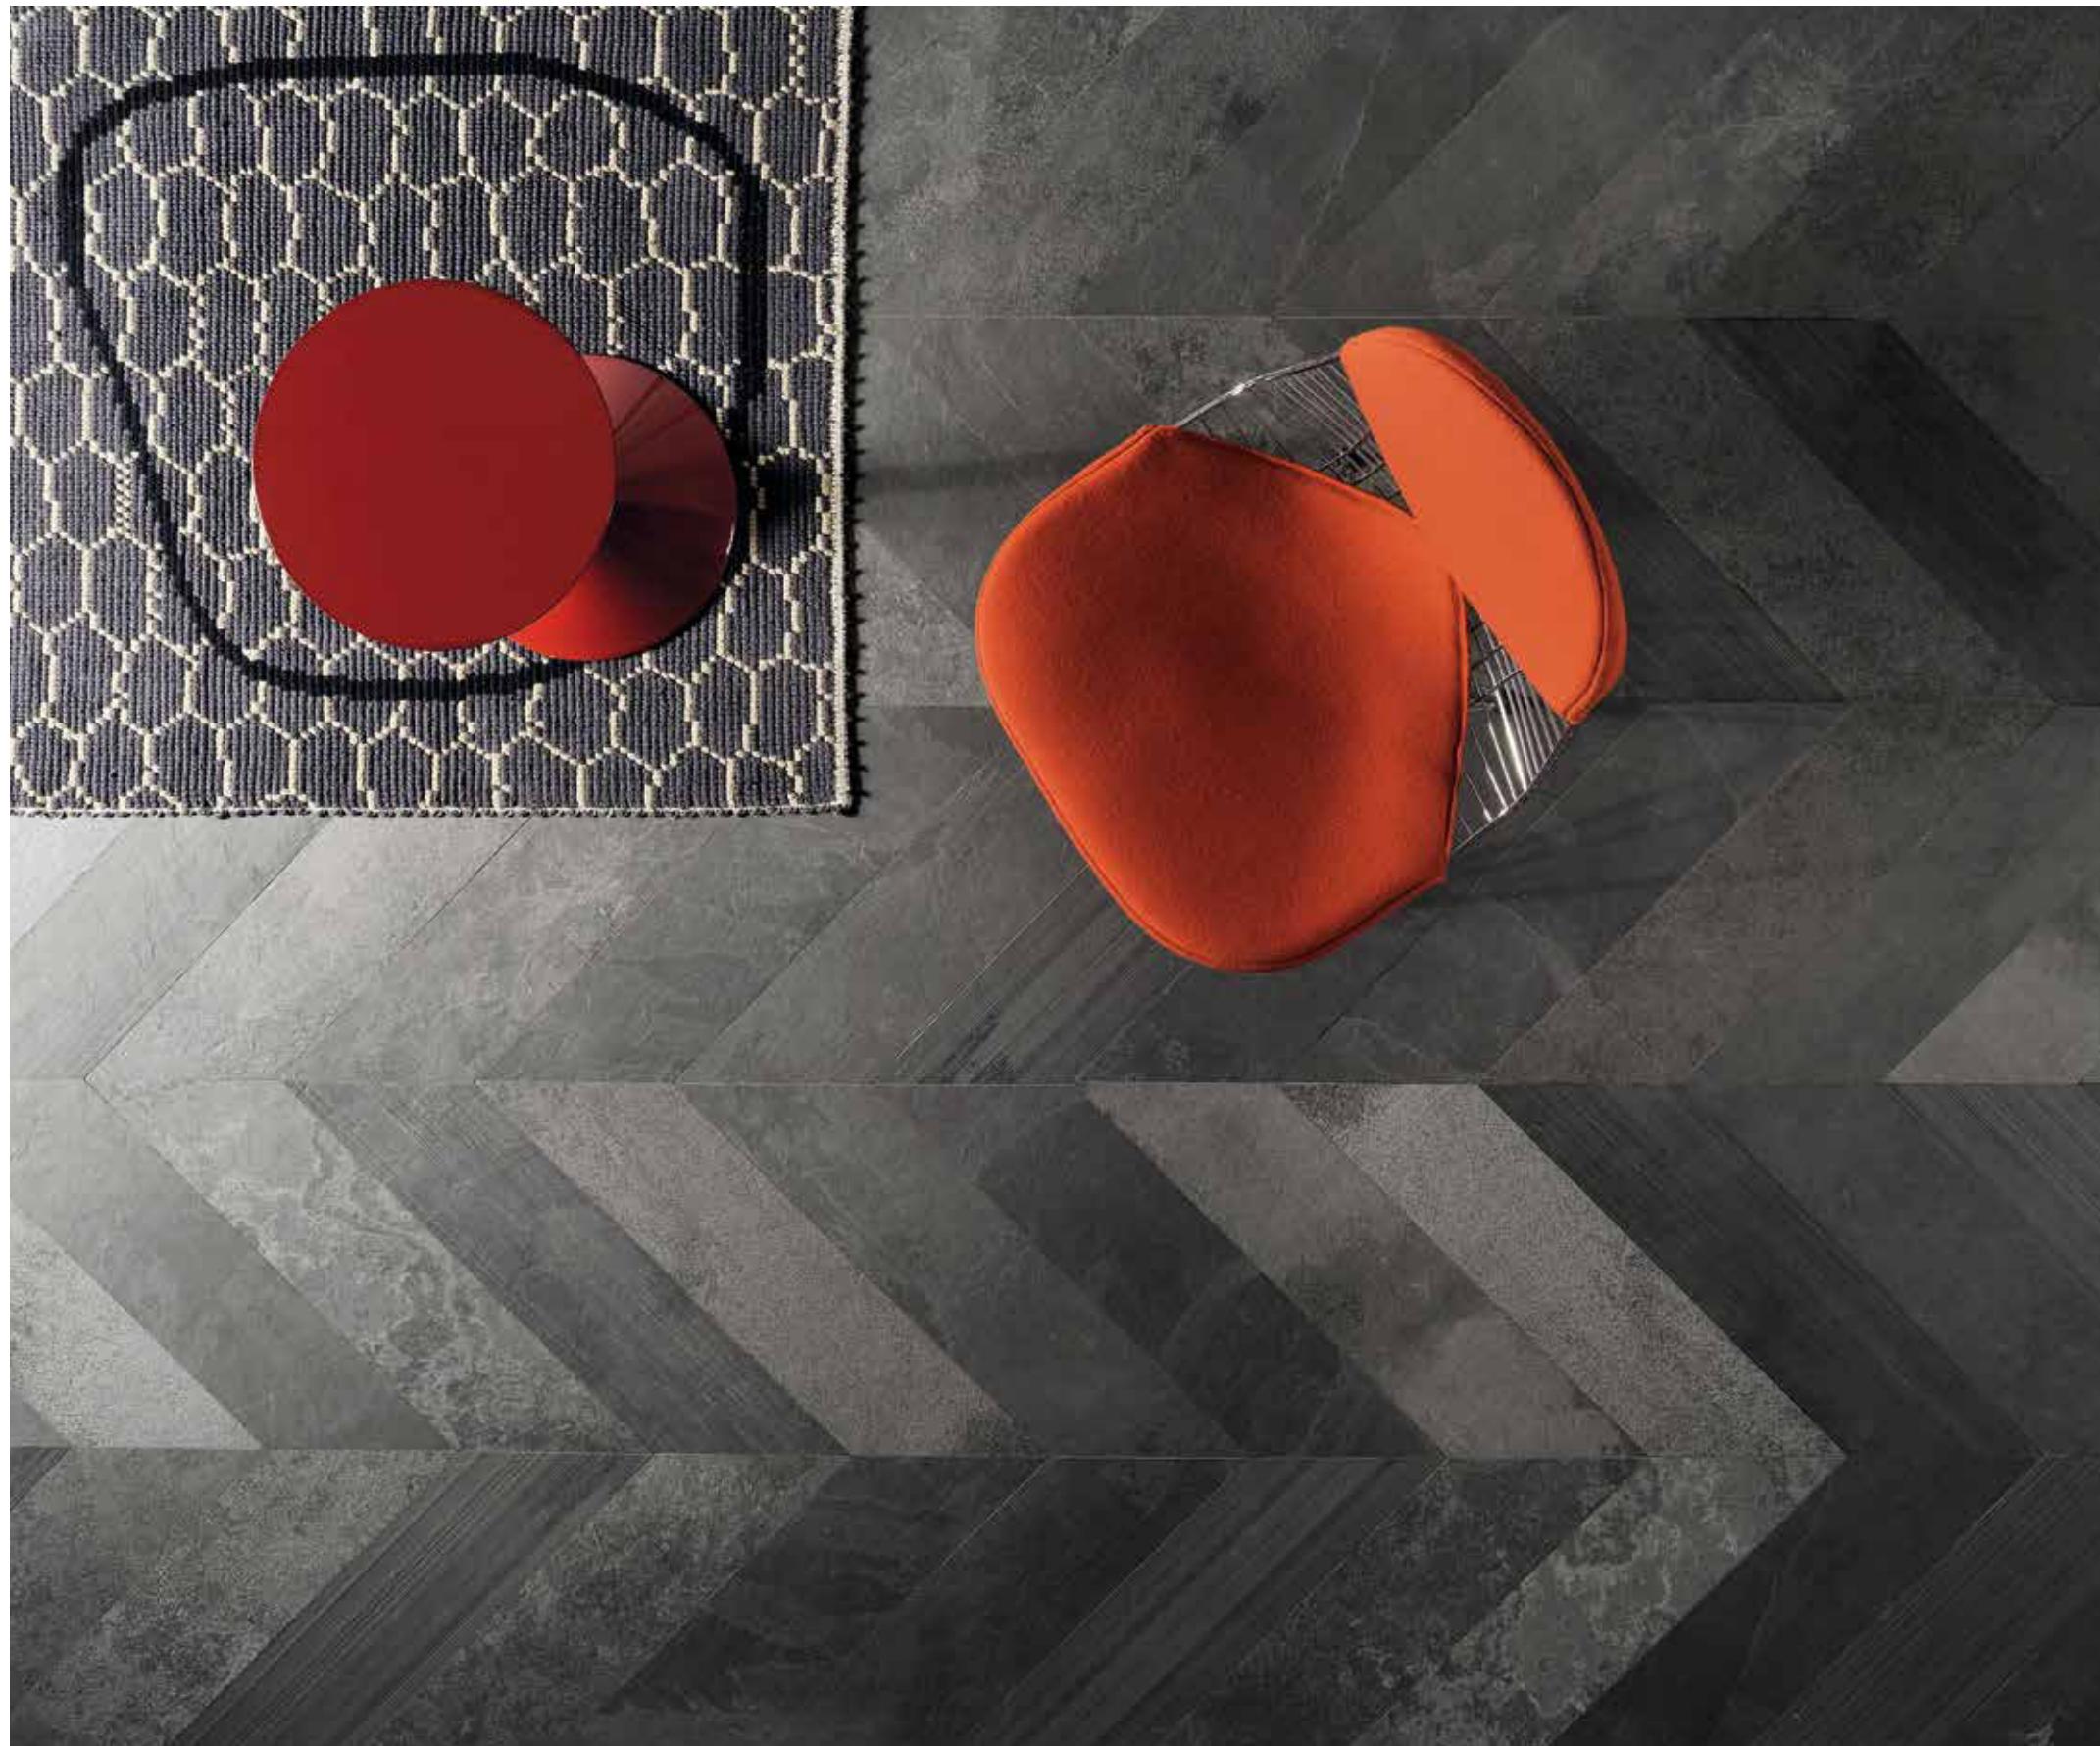

A surface designed to highlight differences

Stone processed by man takes on infinite forms and facets. This is why we have created Ardesia Mix, looking at the multi-faceted slates used for traditional house roofs: the original beauty of natural stone enhanced by a creative human touch.

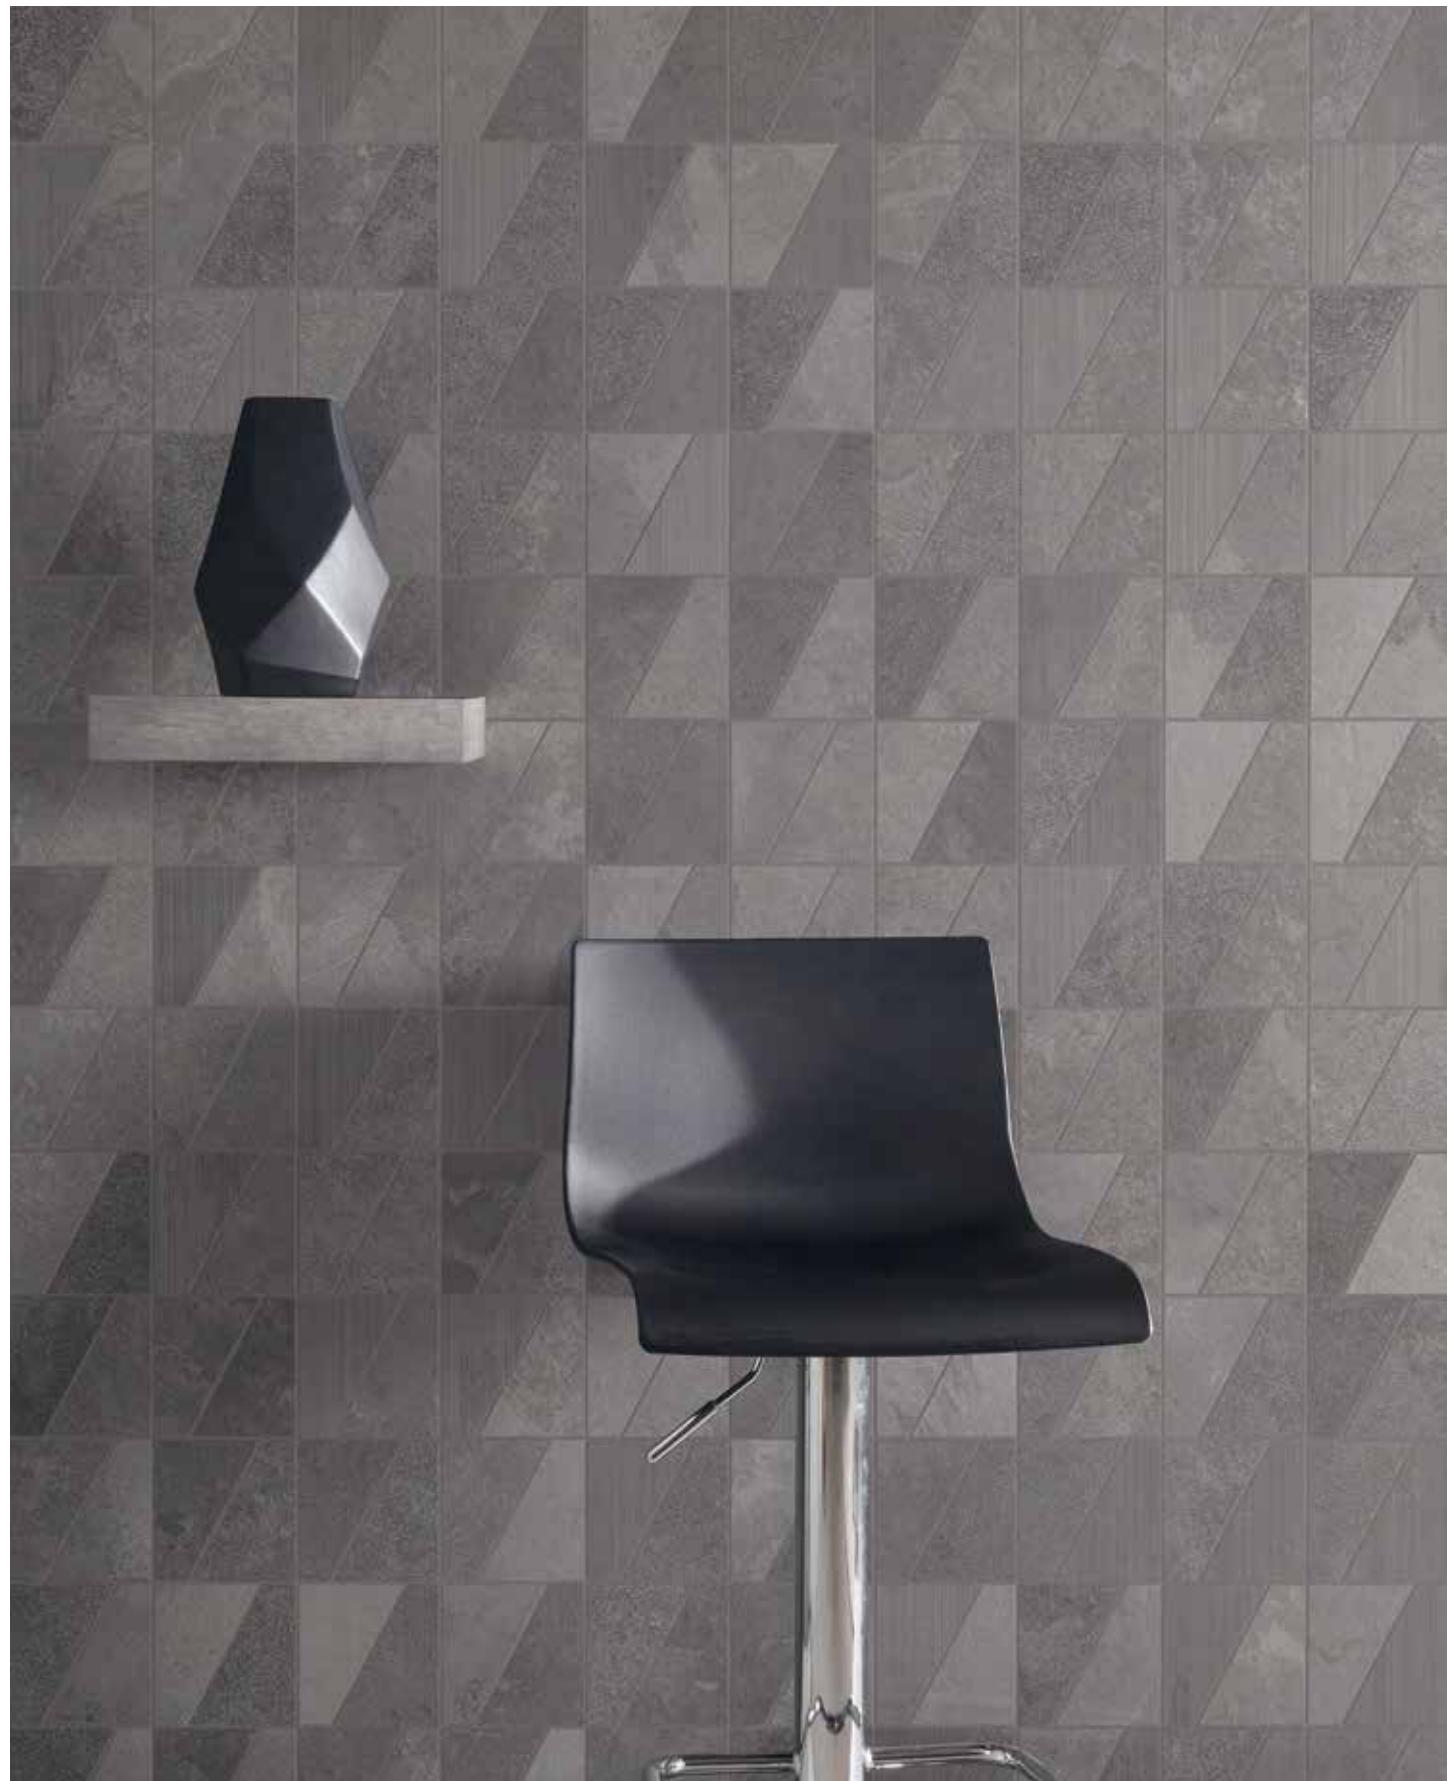

This is exactly what we find in “MIX”: a series of cuts and scratches, the interplay of light and shade, the shift between even and uneven.

These are the features that characterise Ardesia Mix, creating new options for combining with other materials.

REVERSO

Sensations of softness and woven textures for surfaces with primitive yet contemporary appeal

This product interprets the slightly imperfect reverse surface of travertine slabs and their less marked and almost faded looking patterns, looking almost as if they are covered with white dust.

The look is reflected in the current popularity of carefully designed, architectural spaces awash with light, where stone has become a main feature of a room, defining its volume and surfaces.

The style is in line with the “raw” trend, i.e. the appeal of an unfinished look, of something that seems a little rough, of irregular or rugged surfaces that create an elegant and sophisticated mood.

BRICKLANE

The natural next step forward in an original and trendy approach to furnishing a home

A London mood marked by totally reclaimed surfaces that create a feeling of metropolitan progress and contemporary history, of beat music in garages, of creativity and vintage looks taken to extremes. Basically, surfaces that are full of life: life full of hopes and dreams, whose beauty comes from its essential simplicity.

Bricklane also features a range of shapes and colours: brick walls, or elongated bricks, floors with an aged look. The marks of smoke, ask and earth. Marks that tell the story of a present that has not forgotten its past.
