

Top left: Do-Up by ABK

Top right: Brick Design by Emilceramica.

Middle left: Muretto by Ceramica Incontro.

Middle centre: Triburtina by Isla Pietra.

Middle right: Brick Lane by Marca Corona.

Bottom left: Recupera by Cir.

Bottom right: Bricklane by Coem.

Far right top: Cantina by Del Conca.

Additional collections included ABK's Do-Up, Ceramica Incontro's Muretto, Coem's Bricklane, Elios' The Wall, Isla's Pietra Triburtina, Marca Corona's Brickstyle, Monocibec's Eclipse, Ornamenta's Pick 'n Brick, Rondine's Brick Generation and Vallelunga's Creo.

Chevron chic

Drawing inspiration from an age-old pattern, designers will love dressing up floors and walls with these eye-catching porcelains. From rustic and painted wood looks to resin, brick and stone, Italian companies are producing chevron and herringbone tiles across all scales to create striking patterns that are easy to install.

Collections included 41zero42's Rigo, Atlas Concorde's Etic Pro, Coem's BrickLane, Fioranese's Chevron Chic, Flaviker's Place 2B, Italgraniti's Spatula, Mirage's Noon, Novabell's Firestone, Refin's Chevron, Rondine's Brick Generation, Sant'Agostino's Shadewood and Unica's Lacche.

Top: Cantina by Del Conca.

Middle: Eclipse by Monocibec.

Bottom: Micro-Brick by Brix.

Top left: Frame by Fap.

Top right: 3D Wall Design by Atlas Concorde.

Middle left: Timeless by Cerim.

Middle centre: Game of Fifteen designed by Boris Tellegen for Ascot.

Middle right: Reverso by Coem.

Bottom left: More by Piemme.

Bottom right: Details by Tagina.

Additional collections included 41zero42's Signs, Brix's Brush, Caesar's Eclipse, Coem's Reverso, Cotto d'Este's Limestone, Emilceramica's Milestone, Italgraniti's Spatula, La Fabbrica's Fenis, La Faenza's Ego, Novabell's District, Provenza's Gesso, Settecento's Gea, Sintesi's Planet and Vallelunga's Base.

3D wall

With continuously evolving technologies, Italian companies are able to create ceramic tiles with three dimensional folds, wavy ridges, raised geometry and asymmetrical profiles. Fitting these tiles together creates a three dimensional wall with a seamless sculpted surface that naturally draws the eye.

Collections included Ascot's Game of Fifteen Boris Tellegen, Atlas Concorde's 3D Wall Design, Cerim's Timeless, Coem's Reverso, Ergon's Limestone, Fap's Frame, Mutina's Numi, Piemme's More, Sisis' Meteors and Tagina's Details.

Upsize me!

Tiles continue to get bigger every year, bringing a tor-

Top: Aextra30 by Caesar.

Middle: Styletech by Floor Gres.

Above: 3Wood by Leonardo.